Å Å There's what your BYOD policy can help. What should include a BYOD policy? When a device is disabled, IT will remove any necessary encryption, VPN, and anti-malware licensing from the user's device Å Å. Workers should be aware that the company has the right to access and audit any devices used for the job to ensure that the BYOD policy is being followed. The user should consult the manufacturer/supplier/operator for support for their device before requesting assistance from the IT department. The payer can help store important documents and forms of the employeesuch as this articleÅ Å Here are some other things to consider: Decide whether to allow employees to use any laptop, tablet, or smartphone that has or is limited to the range of devices allowed. If a device is not encrypted, employees should know whether to not store sensitive credit card or corporate data. But if you don't have dozens of employeesÅÅÅor more ÅÅ Otherwise, this should be specified in any BYOD policy. (For advice on one of the most difficult things that HR leaders need to do-lay Å Åread this article.) Having a policy in place just the first step To keep employees accountable and ensure compliance, ³ leaders need employees to sign and confirm the policy. policy.
